SAY UNION GAVE ONLY TWELVE HOURS' NOTICE.

"PROPER APPROACH WOULD SECURE FAIR TREATMENT."

WILL STAND BY PRINCIPLE.

The Master Horseshoers of Louisville have issued the following statement of their contention with the union:

"In view of a number of erroneous statements to the contention existing between the city and the union, most of which reflect unjustly on the employers, the latter desire to call the attention of the public, and particularly of their patrons, to the following facts:

"First—The journeymen horseshoers gave only twelve hours' notice of their demand for a nine-hour day.

"Second—There has never been from the beginning of the present trouble any desire on the part of the employers to do anything that was not fair and just toward the journeymen. If they were properly approached.

"Third—The statement that the employers promised the journeymen a nine-hour day three years ago and then failed to do so is entirely untrue. No one realizes more than the master horseshoers that the success or failure of the union depends entirely on the present situation and the future of the true situation shall be made public. When this is done they feel they will have nothing to fear from public sentiment.

"The master horseshoers pledge their word as to the accuracy of the above statements and stand ready to furnish ample proof of the same to any of their customers who may desire it.

As to Giving Notice.

"Taking up these statements in the order given we submit the fact that the union of all labor unions is to give at least thirty days' notice when submitting demands. Many of the journeymen, and even more intelligent give six months, and even more. These organizations realize that support if they took snap judgment on employers.

"In view of the above, the master horseshoers feel that they have a right to demand that they be given notice and consideration in this matter. In this connection it must be stated that the employers do not wish to fight nor are they seeking one, but, on the other hand, they would rather settle the matter and not submit matters where a principle is involved.

"Finally, the president of the local union three years ago voluntarily and officially released the union from its obligations and promise they had made to grant the nine-hour day under certain conditions.

"A final word: We wish to state that we have conclusive evidence that the published reports in the newspapers have not been inspired by the journeymen. While we have had our difference with the journeymen, we are frank enough to say that we believe the large majority of them to be honest and fair. We have resorted to the matters mentioned above.

"Very respectfully, Executive Committee, by Edward L. Andriot, chairman; E. Lamb, George Ferling, A. J. Richards, F. C. Yager."

FAMOUS HORSE.

PUNCH RETIRES FROM POLICE FORCE WITH HISTORY.

Best Known Animal in Louisville Has Long Record for Efficiency.

"Punch, police horse, aged eighteen years, a light bay, three white stockings, white stripe on face, once very fast, to be sold at auction at department stables, 17 Leonard street, July 20," says the New York Sun.

This announcement went forth from Police Headquarters a few days ago, and Punch, munching the hay of merit in his stall on Leonard street, was formally notified by Roundman Wood, in charge of the stables, that he had been condemned as unfit through old age and that the Police Department of New York was not in a position to grant him an old age pension or longer keep him on the payroll.

When Punch comes under the hammer this morning any designing peddler or driver of an owl back who wants to get Punch will have to carry a healthy roll of bills. Police Inspector Adam A. Cross, who has ridden Punch in many parades and who counts the old horse almost a blood relation, will be on hand with a bid that will insure his purchase. Then the mounted cop will find his declining years set in pleasant places, and the reward of long and faithful service will be his.

If the Police Department gave service stripes for horses Punch's white stockings would be heavily chevroned. Up at headquarters they say that there have been few better policemen on the force than Punch. The mounted cop in the part tell his virtues. The record of his long springs after runaway and his quick invention in more than one park accident are repeated at the East Twenty-seventh-street station house as a part of the traditions of the squad's headquarters.

Punch, whose official title before he was condemned was Department Horse 46, was bought by Robert Roosevelt

LOUISVILLE "BOOKIES" ON EASTERN TRACKS

John Fay Reported $200,000 Winner—Tommy Knight Makes Prices for One Hundred Poolrooms.

NEW YORK, July 22.—[Special.] This season has been the most disastrous for bookmakers since the history of later-day racing.

There is not a bookmaker now doing business on Eastern race courses that is a winner. Many of them have been "shot so full of holes" they have been forced to retire.

John Fay, who has met with considerable success in the last few years at the local tracks, forebore the existing conditions and has been on the "draw" for but one "draw" since his arrival early in the spring. The popular plunge from Louisville has devoted his attention to settling his brother bookmakers, and with Bob Tucker, who trains the late Capt. S. S. Brown's horses, he is considered the heaviest bettor at the tracks.

Fay is reported to be anywhere from $100,000 to $200,000 ahead of the game this far.

Tommy Knight, another Louisville bookmaker, is considered by his fellow bookmakers as one of the best judges of prices and closest students of form, but the public "took" the little fellow just as easily as the others. When Tommy came on from Louisville early in the spring he was reported to have won at $100,000 a big book, but it has been swept away. For a time the laymen, out to make money, were guided in the betting by what Knight did. His judgment proved correct. The money was practically moved the odds for the hundreds of poolrooms around New York.

When the war on the poolrooms began early in the racing season the speculations taken by the Philadelpians at the Belmont Park and Jamaica meadows shut them out completely, and they were often out of the line from two to ten points on winners. Tommy was standing at the old Astor Poolroom, now called the Churchill, at the time, and the managers of several big bookmaking establishments, the gamblers who were to govern every dollar placed in the poolrooms about New York.

ANDY SANDERS ADMITS HE CUT SAMUEL COBB.

Andy Sanders, colored, of 213 Sixth street, was arrested at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at Ninth and Green streets by Foremen Miller and Puffer on the charge of milking cattle. He is said to have cut Samuel Cobb, colored, during a quarrel over a glass of beer. Shortly before midnight Saturday night, he is said to have approached Cobb at Seventh and Green streets, and to have demanded a drink. Cobb refused and Sanders drew a drink and shot him over the heart.

He was taken to the City Hospital, where his wounds were dressed. He was later sent to his home, where he is said to be recovering. Sanders fled after the killing, and was arrested several hours later. He admitted the guilt, but declared that he did it in self-defense.

"GILDED MAN" Guards Immense Treasure In Lake.

ENGLISHMEN TRY FOR FORTUNE OF $500,000,000.

WEALTH OF CHIBCHAS LIES IN COLOMBIA.

DRAIN POND TO GET GOLD.

In a small city office situated in London, news is anxiously awaited from a man who is sitting on the edge of a mountain lake in Colombia, Central America, waiting for rain, says the London Express.

Heavy rain may mean for him, and for those in the city office in London, the recovery of treasure worth $500,000,000. The hero of the vigil is Mr. H. Knowles, managing director in Bogota of Concretors, Limited. The story of the company is one of the most amazing romances of treasure-seeking in history.

The Lake of Guatavita, in Colombia, lies in the basin formed by the cone of an extinct volcano. It stands nine to ten thousand feet above the sea level, and is but a few miles from the thriving little city of Bogota. Many centuries ago it was the Sacred Lake of the Chibchas, a race which at the time of the Spanish conquest numbered over 1,000,000 individuals.

The story of the Chibchas is the story of the "Gilded Man," and devoutly believed that their deity made his home at the bottom of the lake of Guatavita. Periodically they are declared to have made pilgrimages to the lake, when they cast every imaginable kind of treasure, gold, silver and jewels into the waters with the object of propitiating the "Gilded Man," who, through his army of priests, threatened all kinds of pains and penalties unless the treasure were offered in sufficient quantities.

The story of the Chibchas has many times been investigated by travelers, and all agree in believing that the lake is the work of the "Gilded Man," the famous traveler and historian, was one of those who estimated its value at $100,000,000.

Then, metaphorically speaking, the engineers set down and went. The rock-like substance still lies as an impenetrable bomb-proof lid over the golden gods and the silver dishes and ornaments which the Chibchas, the jeweled goddesses and their glittering maidens.

Quetzada, the Spanish conqueror of the Chibchas, was told the story of the treasure, and succeeded in reducing the water of the lake, then 214 feet deep, to fifteen feet. Then the sides fell in, and all of his labor was wasted. Further attempts were abandoned, and the lake remained to this day a very large extent its former depth.

Where the great Spanish administrator failed, however, Contractors Limited, a proselyt British syndicate, frayed just over six years ago, has determined to succeed.

The syndicate was formed for the purpose of exploiting a concession obtained from the Colombian Government to drain the lake and recover for the owners the treasure believed to be hidden by its waters. Among its directors are Mr. R. J. Price, M. P. for the Eastern division of Norfolk, chairman, and Mr. C. J. de Mott, its capital was originally $250,000, and was increased to $250,000 in 1903.

After six years of hard work, however, some of those connected with the company are beginning to believe that the "Gilded Man" is still at the bottom of the lake guarding his treasure. Enormous quantities of gold and silver and jeweled goddesses have been found from time to time supported the tradition of the treasure to be found in the lake.

First the lake was drained. It was not an easy task, for it is some nine miles in length, and unforeseen difficulties were continually harassing the workers. The most harassing of these was the constant rain, which, winter and summer, hardly ever ceased.

Lake Drained.

At last, however, toward the end of 1903 the welcome news reached London that Mr. Knowles and his staff of engineers and workmen had succeeded in cutting through the basin of the lake, and the water had been drained out successfully. There was great jubilation, and preparations were made for the large consignments of gold, silver and jewels which might be expected to arrive by the next boat.

Unfortunately, however, the water is not the only barrier on which the "Gilded Man" has to rely for the safekeeping of his treasure. The jubilation in London was summarily ended by a cablegram stating that twenty-five feet of solid mud, or some 20,000,000 cubic feet in all, still lay between the hole made in the side of the basin and the treasure seekers and their quest.

What is 30,000,000 cubic feet of mud when 2,000,000,000 is at stake? A new engineering feat was decided on—the construction of a great dam across the hole made in the side of the basin terminating in a shaft through which the mud could be washed and carried off by a system of pumps.

The dam was constructed, and with it the cleansing shaft, but while the work was in progress a strange thing happened. The "Gilded Man" was evidently at work again.

For over three years the engineers had worked in the rain, in such down-pour, indeed, as was unprecedented in Central America. As the water ran from the hole made in the side of the basin, a parallel in the history of the country, for more than two and a half years not a drop of rain has fallen at the scene of the operations, and when the engineers had completed the cleansing shaft, the sun had baked the 2,000,000 cubic feet of mud into the consistency of hard rock.

Hidden Wealth.

Then, metaphorically speaking, the engineers set down and went. The rock-like substance still lies as an impenetrable bomb-proof lid over the golden gods and the silver dishes and ornaments which the Chibchas, the jeweled goddesses and their glittering maidens.

BUILDING PLANS

MAY BE CONSIDERED IN SPE-CIAL SESSION THIS WEEK.

School Board Anxious to Push Work on Additions to Various Buildings.

For the purpose of passing on the plans and specifications for improvements to be made on several of the school buildings in Louisville, it is likely that a special meeting of the Louisville School board will be called for the purpose of the next regular meeting of the board is scheduled for the first Monday night in August.

Trustee John Horst said yesterday afternoon that the architects employed to draw up plans for additions to be made to the Seventh and Shipp-street school building, the Parkland school building, the Manual Training High School building and about completed their work. A change, to cost the neighborhood of $1,100, is to be added to the Manual Training High School building and four new rooms are to be added to the school building in Parkland and at Seventh and Shipp streets. It is estimated that the addition of these buildings will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

It will be necessary for the board to meet and pass on the plans for these improvements at a special session of the board, said Mr. Horst, in order that the improvements can be completed as soon as possible. All three of these buildings, during the school term are crowded beyond their capacity, and it is necessary that the present improvements be made before the beginning of the next school term in September.

Little other business of importance is scheduled to come before the board at its meeting. Mr. Horst said yesterday that it might be necessary to act on a number of resignations of teachers and on the resignation of the principal of the school, and to name and name successors to those who resign. Among the resignations to be considered is that of Miss Anna Rosella, a teacher in the Normal School. Since she was reappointed a teacher by the School Board several weeks ago in August, her fiancé is a resident of St. Louis, and her resignation as teacher in the Normal School is now in the hands of Mr. Horst.

DIFFICULTY PROBLEM

TO ENFORCE EIGHT-HOUR LAW
IN CANAL WORK.

Employees Often Have No Active Duties—Answer Expected Soon,

President Roosevelt has ordered that the eight hour law on all Government or public works be strictly adhered to.
Violations of the law by contractors will be reported to the Department of Justice and prosecutions will follow in accordance with the provisions of the law. The attention of the Chief Executive was directed to the violation of the law through a communication representing organized labor.

The puzzling question to all concerned is how the law can be enforced in the case of the Louisville Canal. Some time ago the Louisville Federation of Labor made a complaint to Capt. Harry Burgess, engineer in charge of the canal, that the Federation of Labor at Washington, to the effect that many of the employees engaged in work about the canal worked fifteen hours a day, while others worked ten and twelve hours. Nothing has been heard from the complaint as yet.

Capt. Burgess said that it would be difficult to put the eight hour law into effect in all the work on the canal, or on the Government boats from the fact that much of the work was merely "standing watch" and was not at all laborious. He said that while lock-keepers on the Louisville canal were generally kept busy, on Green river often the locks are not opened once in twenty hours, much less eight hours.
However, an answer is expected in response to the complaint in the near future.

JUDGE PRYOR LEAVES TO-DAY FOR WISCONSIN.

Judge Joseph Pryor and family will leave to-day for Lake Delavan, Wis., where Judge Pryor has engaged a cottage for the summer. Judge Pryor has been sick for some time and is in the hope of resting off the effects of the disease this summer at the lake. He is expected to spend some months in Wisconsin.

NOT OF MAN

But of God Is the Bible, Says
Dr. M. E. Dodd.

REMARKABLE VOLUME BEYOND
SCOPE OF HUMAN GENIUS.

ITS SPIRIT AND PURPOSE EVI-DENCE OF INSPIRATION.

HAS STOOD TEST OF AGES.

The Rev. Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Fulton, Ky., was warmly welcomed yesterday morning at Broadway Baptist church.
After his sermon a great many of the congregation went forward and gladly ac-cited him. The sermon was brief and had for a text Paul's words to Timothy, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness," II Timothy, III, 16.

"We are not presenting this subject," said he, "to convince one who does not believe in the inspiration of the Scripture, for we hope there are no such present, but the object is more particularly that our faith in the Bible may be strengthened and that our love for it may be increased, and that our anxiety to know more of it may become stronger."

"First, the spirit and purpose of the Bible helps me to believe that it is of God and not of man. Second, the intellectual character of the Bible helps me to believe that this remarkable volume is not the product of a human mind. Where, in all human literature, can you find history like that of Moses? poetry like Job or the Psalms; proverbs like Solomon's; prophecies like Isaiah; theology like Paul; vision like St. John.

"There is no other book which a few centuries ago was a new and strange mind will not exhaust; yet men there are who have made this volume the object of their study for half a century, who have examined every paragraph, with repeated and closest scrutiny, and with every fresh perusal have discovered new thoughts and new causes for wonder and joy. Consider the Bible as a whole, and you will find Bibles were said last year than the combined sales of one hundred of the most popular books of the world. At the present rate of increase the Bible will be in use within this century. Truly we can declare:

"For were the seas one chrysolite,
And the earth a golden ball,
And diamonds all the night,
This book were worth them all."

"The Down Grade of Sin."

In his sermon on "The Down Grade of Sin," delivered at the Second Presbyterian church last night, the Rev. Dr. Charles R.
Hemphill showed how the commission of one sin will lead to the commission of others, as an illustration he referred to King Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, who married his brother's wife, and by whose orders John the Baptist was beheaded. Dr. Hemphill said that John the Baptist criticized King Herod for the marriage and how this criticism rankled in the breast of the woman, who was filled with a desire for revenge. How she prevailed upon Herod to have John the Baptist imprisoned and later, under undue influence over the King, succeeded in having him beheaded.

Dr. Hemphill told how King Herod, after promising the daughter of his wife anything she might demand, repented his promise when he learned that she wanted the head of John the Baptist. He lacked the moral courage to rescind his promise, and so he gave her what she asked for.
"You have made a promise to do a wicked thing, and it only deepens the need-ness to do it," he said. "There are many people who know the right, but are afraid to do it for fear of the ridicule of their friends."

"Sin travels downward," continued Dr.
Hemphill, "sometimes with tremendous swiftness."

"Don't trifle with sin. Do not think slightly of any sin. There isn't a sin, however trivial it may seem, that hasn't in it the possibility of evil."
